

He then stated proposed to show by the acts of Ann Mellton without calling for her declarations, that she undertook to accompany the witness to the grave of Laura Foster & did in fact accompany her to a point within 100 yards thereof & at that point did cover with leaves a spot of ground where the soil had been disturbed.

Objected to by the prisoner, for the reason alledged in the 4th exception, objections over ruled and evidence admitted by the Court. The witness stated, On one occasion after Dula was in jail on this charge at the instance of Ann Mellton I started with her from the house of James Mellton. We went by Lotty Foster's crossed the Reedy branch, went through an old field on to a ridge up to a log. here Ann Mellton picked up an spow full of leaves and place on a place by the log, that appeared to have been rooted about. The place where we stoped was 100 yards or a little more from the grave as it was afterwards discovered - we were going in that direction, when I became frightened & refused to proceed.

(The prisoner excepted)

I saw the dead body. I thought it was the body of Laura Foster I recognized her teeth & dress. The teeth were large & there was a large open space between them; I had seen the dress before
